

Who you choose to follow shows your values, your character. What is remarkable about the people who chose to follow Jesus is that they seem to do it without a background check, without proper credentials, without references from upstanding community members.

Jesus' character and values, his work ethic, his care for people, were all the disciples had to go on when they decided to follow Jesus. Truly remarkable.

When we make a decision to make a donation to a worthy cause we look at every angle, check out the character of the cause and make every effort to give of our time and financial support to something which will make a difference to what we value.

Why do you follow Jesus? Why do you worship, give or invite others to come to church? Each of us will answer this question differently. What will be similar is the one for whom we follow, Jesus, the Christ. It is Jesus who loves us, died to save us and calls us to follow him.
